

Big romance

Giant motifs are a major force in wallpaper this season, with florals in particular being magnified to great effect. The new collections at Designers Guild include a few takes on the trend – our favourite is Mehsama, with its fresh, Delft-like roses. In mega dimensions, the pattern feels dynamic and modern rather than traditional. Mehsama wallpaper, £47 per 10m roll; Franchini Cobalt silk (at window), £89 per m (designersguild.com)

On the line

Retro phones may look good, but modern life demands touch-tone. Step forward the digital cordless ePure, with its minimal take on a nostalgic shape. £69.95 (johnlewis.com)

ALL ABOUT EAMES

Made in collaboration with the Eames Office, the House Of Cards stationery collection features images from Charles and Ray's archive of 'good stuff'. Will you draw a future classic? Pencil sets, £6 each (wzproducts.com)

Profile piece

Looking more like a graceful sculpture than brassware, the Naos tap is a very slender 10mm wide. The tall, slim shape is both elegant and eye-catching. Available in freestanding and wall-mounted versions. From £500 (bathroomsint.com)

Artist's vision

The art world is rich inspiration for design right now. The Victor sideboard is a tribute to the painter Vasarely, who, in the Thirties, created the first example of op art. The sweeping arc is a trick he used to create movement between colours, and it's realised brilliantly in bold lacquer. £4,520 (roche-bobois.com)
